3.3. Environmental and Social Responsibility

- Conduct Environmental and Social Impact Assessments (ESIA) before launching new projects.
- Implement sustainable manufacturing practices, reducing waste, conserving water, and lowering emissions.
- Source raw materials responsibly, ensuring ethical mining and sustainable production of rubber, metals, and electronics used in automotive parts.
- Avoid sourcing from suppliers engaged in illegal deforestation, pollution, or human rights abuses.

3.4. Community Engagement and Development

- Establish open and transparent communication channels with local and indigenous communities.
- Invest in community development programs, including education, healthcare, and infrastructure improvements.
- Partner with indigenous-owned businesses and local suppliers to promote fair economic opportunities.
- Provide employment opportunities and skill development programs for local and indigenous communities.

3.5. Ethical Business Practices and Supply Chain Responsibility

- Ensure that all suppliers and contractors adhere to this policy and uphold human rights standards.
- Require suppliers to disclose sourcing locations and verify ethical labor conditions, particularly in mining and raw material extraction.
- Implement Fair Trade and Responsible Sourcing practices to prevent forced displacement and labor exploitation.
- Conduct regular audits to ensure supplier compliance with ethical and environmental standards.

3.6. Grievance Mechanisms and Conflict Resolution

- Establish a grievance mechanism that allows communities to report concerns or rights violations.
- Work with independent third-party mediators to resolve disputes fairly.
